Good.

To encourage and promote the research for and the preservation of historical matter relating to

United States

JG Thompson
SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS
1922

The half tone reproduction used as the frontispiece to this manuscript is from a newspaper cut owned by Herbert Wells Fay, a Lincoln collector of De Kalb. It was made in 1860 from an oil portrait executed earlier in that year by Thomas Hicks, N. A. The original was not painted from a photograph or a personal sitting. It was made to order by the direction of a committee for the purpose of correcting the impression that the nominee of the republican party was only a western rail splitter. The portrait first appeared upon a banner that was carried in processions at political rallies. The newspaper sketch was made from the banner by the same artist and was widely distributed throughout the east during the campaign of 1860.

APPENDIX

THE BIXBY LETTER

Executive Mansion,
November 21, 1864.

Dear Madam:

I have been shown in the files of the War Department a statement of the Adjutant General of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any words of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the republic they died to save. I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

Yours very sincerely and respectfully,

ABRAHAM LINCOLN
